FRIDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1919, AT 11 O'CLOCK A. M. all that certain tract of land, containing 378 acres, more or less, situated one and one-half miles from Hallsboro, Va., together with all improvements thereon, and known as

"The Stonehinge Farm"

(Powhatan County)

This is one of the most beautiful, healthful and desirable country estates within close proximity of Richmond to be had. There are about 175 acres of very fertile land, well cultivated in various grain and hay crops. The land is well watered by streams and numerous large springs throughout. The remainder is a beautiful woodland of young, thrifty growth of timber, about 65 per cent hardwood, and should one desire cultivating this land, every acre is available for high culture. The entire acreage is well fenced and crossfenced with woven wire new fencing on cedar or locust posts. A number of which are squared close to the handsome home on place. Running water or spring in each field. The buildings consist of a very large new nine-room residence with broad porches on three sides with provision for light, water and bath, and furnace heat; two well-built four-room tenant houses; a cattle barn, 30x65 feet, with double hay-fork and two silos attached—ninety-ton capacity each. A horse barn—bank—on concrete base with grage storage capacity and sixty-five ton silo attached; a large glass-front hog house (designed for brood hogs with pig); exceilent ice house which keeps ice; lake near by; implement sheds; large hen houses; complete shop with all imaginable tools and fixtures for blacksmith or other mechanic, and numerous other buildings. The land is gently rolling; the soil mostly chocolate loam and very productive. This is either the best farm to be had in this section for a farmer who wishes to farm independently with a reasonable capital, the country gentleman, business man or a millionaire who wishes to make the best show place to be had in these parts.
